David Bobrosky '95
Attorney Networking Group

Admittedly, David fell a little out of touch with CSUN after graduation. His wife, Mary Lou, then started working in the Health Sciences Department, and he reconnected with the university.

Reconnected might be understating it.

He is the president and co-founder (with Michael Attar) of the CSUN Alumni Attorney Networking Group. The group hosts monthly meetings at his office (David is an attorney and partner in the personal injury practice group at Lewitt Hackman Shapiro Marshall and Harlan in Encino), where they provide a speaker for continuing education credit and a full dinner all at no charge to CSUN alumni.

Between each monthly meeting, members meet in groups of three or four for breakfast or lunch to get to know one another better. This interaction provides an avenue for CSUN alumni to foster relationships with other CSUN alumni in the legal world, leading to sharing of legal knowledge, camaraderie and referral relationships. Several referrals between group members have already taken place. The group is also starting to put together a program that will work with current students at CSUN who are interested in a legal career.

Off campus, David is a volunteer and committee member for the San Fernando Valley Bar Association and is a member of the Consumer Attorneys Association of Los Angeles. He is a former board member of Knapp Ranch Youth Baseball League and is a past nominee of Character Counts coaching award for the city of Los Angeles Parks and Recreation youth sports programs.
